In a zoo in South America there were some animals. The animals were named by what they are. Their names were Gorilla, Slug, Unicorn, and Panda.
The animal's wanted to get free so they could go home to their habitats.
Panda bounced on his belly to break out of his cage. Then he bounced the cages to break them open.
"Wait!" Panda said.

"We can't leave without missing each other."

"Let's split up by twos," Slug said.
Gorilla and Slug went to Rwanda.

Uganda, Panda and Unicorn went to Sichuan, China to the bamboo forest in the mountains.
So in the end they got to their habitats
and still had a friend.
They loved it.
