

We Can All Be

Friends!

By: Mitzel A.

Grijalva

Today is the first day of school.
And there are 2 new students in the classroom, and they look kind of different from all of us. The girl's name is Fabella, and the boy's name is Jake.

When they introduced themselves, the rest of the class stared and started whispering about Isabelle and Jake. The 2 new students got sad because, it hurt their feelings.

But then Mrs. Lovelace came and told the class, "It's ok if Isabelle and Jake look different from us. If you think about it, we are all unique. We all talk different, and look different, but that makes life so much more fun! After all, we are all the same inside!"

So, the message from me to you is, even though people look different: from us, you should n't judge them from how they look, because if you think ^{about} it, we are all the same inside.
We can all be friends even though we look different!

The End

