

Fill-In Radio Anchors

WLVR is collecting resumes of qualified, interested professionals for fill-in work.

WLVR is seeking fill-in news anchors. You will substitute for regular hosts when time off is scheduled and as operational needs arise. We are seeking a warm, natural and authoritative on-air presence to assist with the execution of live broadcasts across days, including weekends, middays, and AM/PM drive time. This role is dependent on a flexible and adaptive on-air talent, and the ability to get to know WLVR. The ideal candidates must have an engaging on-air style, excellent news judgement, a thirst for accurate, timely news coverage, strong technical skills, meticulous attention to detail and accuracy, and the ability to write quickly and compellingly for audio. This position works closely with the News Director. The Anchor must integrate network and WLVR content seamlessly, understanding the Lehigh Valley community.

Send resume and air check to: wlytapplicant@wlyt.org

Key Duties & Responsibilities:

- Fill in for regular anchor shifts during their time off
- Presenting on-air content including news, weather, and continuity
- Experience preparing and delivering newscasts, including writing & editing for precision and accuracy
- Writing, reporting and recording newscast items, including spots and copy
- Anchoring occasional special broadcasts
- Ability to reliably work a flexible schedule (early mornings, evenings, weekends and holidays), filling-in for other anchor shifts as needed
- Superb on-air presentation skills and demonstrated talent at live anchoring
- Must be proficient in live board operation, broadcast automation and digital audio editing
- 3+ years of experience in a broadcast or digital newsroom environment; experience at a public radio station and familiarity with NPR programs is desirable. Prefer experience hosting Morning Edition or All Things Considered at a Public Radio Station